STEAMER MATTANO SUNK. Her Crew and Passengers Saved.

The steamer Mattano, belonging to Mr. Geo. L Sheriff, was sunk yesterday at the wharf in Chickamoxen Creek, about 35 miles down the river. The Mattano was engaged in the river tradefreight and passenger-and on her way down yesterday, about 11 o'clock, struck a rock or log, staving a hole in her bottom. Efforts were at once made to save her, and she was run into the wharf, when the passengers and freight were got-ten off with safety, after which she went down at the wharf. The steamer Wakefield went down this morning for the freight and passengers, and will bring them up this afternoon.

Government Printing Office Employes. A DECISION OF CONTROLLER DURHAM AS TO THEIR LEAVES OF ABSENCE. Public Printer Benedict recently applied for the opinion of the First Controller of the Treasury as to the act of Congress granting fifteen days leave of absence each year to employes of the Government Printing Office. Mr. Benedict argued that before being entitled to any leave at all; that if dismissed before the year was up no allowance for leave could be made, and he asked an opinion as Judge Durham has decided that while the law

In a letter upon the subject Judge Dur-ham says: "I am forced to the conclusion o receive leave with pay. The act provides that before they shall receive fifteen days leave of sota and Dakota, where it is now in progress, and where all growing crops were improved. In New England and the Middle Atlantic States the first year, it is my opinion that he would be enthe expiration of six months from the end of his first year, it is my opinion that he would be en-titled to seven-and-a-half days' pay; at the ex-piration of three months to three-and-three-quarters days' pay, and at that rate for lesser me. This is the rule adopted in this Department (Treasury), and I see no reason why the same rule hould not apply to your office. You must be the judge as to when it may be proper to grant leave in each case where the employe continues in the service, as the act gives you this discretion. I think that this construction of the statute is fair and equitable, as between the employe and the Government, and it is in accordance, as I have said before, with the established custom of the reasury Department. This decision will affect all those employes who have been dismissed recently, after having been one year in the service, and many of them will be

It is claimed on behalf of the new movement that the organizations of the Knights of Labor are wan-ing in influence, and that the meetings are scantily attended, chiefly from the fact that the diversity of trades represented in them prevent the har-monious interests which belong to similarity of occupation. The projectors anticipate some de-gree of dimculty, from the fact that a number of women have already been organized with the knights. Ex-GOV. SHEPHERD TALKS. Chat With the Distinguished Invalid at Bleak House.

HIS ACCOUNT OF THE ACCIDENT THAT HAS TEMPO-RARILY DISABLED HIM-HIS PLANS FOR THE SUM-MER-TO GO TO THE SEA-SHORE IN A FEW DAYS, AND TO RETURN TO MEXICO IN SEPTEMBER - AN ACCOUNT OF HIS MINING OPERATIONS AT BATOPILAS. When a STAR reporter called at Bleak House yesterday morning he found Gov. Shepherd comfortably seated on the wide plazza in a rustic rocking chair, enjoying the breeze that found its way to that exposed location. He wore a light alpaca coat and a black silk skull cap. As he arose from his chair it was at once apparent that his condition is remarkable, considering the terrible ordeal through which he has recently passed. But for his almost hairless head his appearance has not changed more than would ordinarily be expected rom lapse of time. When surprise was expressed that he looked so well, Gov. Shepherd replied, "Yes, I think I am holding my own pretty well, considering what I have been through. Look at this," and, removing his cap, he showed an ugly, purple scar, extending nearly across the scalp, which showed that the escape from a fracture of the skull was a narrow one.

HOW THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED. "Would you object to telling the readers of THE STAR the particulars of your accident?" asked the reporter. "Not in the least," was the reply. "A party of four of us were returning to the hacienda from the ranch, several miles distant. Darkness came upon us sooner than we expected, and we had to pick our way carefully. Part of the road was through an aqueduct that we are building, 2 miles long and 8 feet wide. In building it we frequently met with big boulders which had to be blasted or tunneled through. One of these rocks was the size of that house there" (pointing to a stone outhouse about 15 feet square), "and that was blasted through. We started through this rock, and were getting along all right. The roof at the farther end was not as high as at the entrance, and there were some terms of the start there were some terms of the start the start were were some terms of the start the start were were some terms of the start the start were some terms of the start the start were some terms of the start the start the start were some terms of the start the sta there were some jagged points sticking out. I was riding along carefully, with my hat in my hand and my head bowed. When almost through my horse suddenly shied at something—I never knew what—and the top of my head struck with terrific force against the sharp rock at the exit. I was narrially strucked. partially stunned, but was able to keep my seat, and rode down to a neighboring creek, where the wound was bathed. It was too dark to tell the extent of the damage. When we reached home, however, it was found that the scalp had been literally torn back. In thirty-six hours erysipelas had set in, and I was in a pretty bad way. I had good medical attendance, and my wound was carefully dressed every day. Pus formed under the scalp, and the doctor was obliged to force it out every day. Dear, dear, what agony it was!" he lin executive. He desired to defend Mr. Harring-exclaimed, looking off into the distance. "I was ton, whose official position precluded him from a pretty strong man, and not easily unnerved, but that ordeal, day after day and week after week, was telling on me fearfully, and I was breaking down under it. Mrs. Shepherd arrived just in time, for the doctor already had both thumbs and a finger poisoned from my wound. I was delirous a good deal of the time, but I knew that my head was terribly swollen and out of shape from the

A JOER ON HIMSELF. "Everything has a ludicrous phase, though," continued the governor smiling, "and they told a tion of Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha good joke on me. When I was at my worst, I was very desirious of seeing myself in a mirror. I wanted to see if that head looked as it felt. The my attendant wasn't watching I stepped across the room to a looking-glass. This was when one side of my head was bigger than the other, one eye was all bulged out, and the other looked sunken from contrast. They said that I stood intently gazing at my reflection a moment, and then exclaimed: 'Hello! Ben Butler; what in the devil are you doing way down here?' I managed to pull along until the wound began to heal pretty well. The only way I could obtain rest was by lying on my face with my forehead resting on my forearm. Just when everything seemed progressing favorably I had another at-tack of erysipelas, and a severe chill, followed by a high fever. The doctor felt pretty serious over it all, and it was decided that I must be taken away. Unexpectedly, everything seemed to go well with me. Instead of being carried in a big chair prepared for me I was able to ride a mule. I don't know how I did, it, but I did it. As soon as I reached the mountains I began to mend rapidly, and have been continued. and have been continuing to improve ever since Of course I am weak still and need rest, but that's

HIS PLANS FOR THE SUMMER. "How long will you be here?" asked the STAF "I will remain at Bleak House two or three days and then will go to the seashore, where I expect to get a good long rest." "Your many friends are very anxious to see you," said the reporter, "and are bent on giving you a reception, but they would be giad to consult your wishes in the matter."
"Indeed I want to see them all," was the reply,
"but I am not now in a condition to undergo any excitement or fatigue. I am very easily unnerved. and my doctor's orders are to keep quiet. I think been issued by the clerk of the court to Frank it would be ill-advised for me to have a reception, or whatever you may call it, now, but when come back from the seashore, in September, I will be only too glad to see them all. Before I go away I will drive in, to take a look at the city and shake hands with a few intimate friends, but I want to keep as quiet as possible. "I will not leave for Batopilas before the last of September or the first of October, so that there is to hurry. I want to see all my friends, but I want to do it when I can enjoy myself and not feel that I am endangering my health. I think the boys will appreciate the situation, and will not suppose for a moment that I am not anxious to meet them THE PROSPECTS AT BATOPILAS. "The readers of THE STAR would like to learn from you how you are prospering in Mexico," suggested the reporter. "Well, I have succeeded splendidly," was the "'nybody that knows me knows that I wouldn't bang on to a failure for seven years. The prospects were pretty bad the first year. A terriole mistake was made. With a capital of $150,000 we began to open up the property we had secured. With the certification of a mining expert that the first year's yield would be over a half million dollars, we began work. Our disappointment was great. Instead of getting out $600,000, as we expected, we didn't get Laisant received from 6 $100,000. With money nearly all gone, what was to be done? One of two things. Either go back to divulge its contents. home, with hat in hand, whining for more money, or else stay right there and by hard work rectify the mistake that was made. I chose to do the latter. With no more use for mining experts, l started out on my own account. I was satisfied that the silver was there, and I determined to get it. Little by little we enlarged our operations, and began working other mines. The Mexican government saw that we meant business, and showed a willingness to assist. A grant was conceded to us of nearly the entire mineral wealth of the country. We have now five different mines in operation, and the annual yield is several hundred thousand dollars. As matters are now our expenses are very heavy. Each mine requires a separate and distinct force of superintendent and searchers and others, at an annual cost of $6,000 to $10,000 for each. A good deal of the ore is at least 80 per cent pure silver, and there is constant temptation for our employes who work in the mines to steal. They are thoroughly searched every time they come out. It not only costs to get Union at Lake Bluff yesterday Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, gave some interesting details of what prohibition has done and is doing in the South. "When do you expect the tunneling to be com-pleted?" asked the reporter.

"Unless there are some unexpected set-backs we ought to be through in a couple of years. Even now things are in very satisfactory shape and run smoothly. I can be spared from Batopolis without inconvenience until I have regained my health." TO MAKE WASHINGTON HIS HOME. "When will you come back to the capital to live?" asked the reporter.

"I shall always make Washington my home," replied the governor, "but I will spend a portion of each year at Batopolis. My work is there, and I must not neglect it. I have two sons-in-law that are experts in the business, and they relieve me of are experts in the business, and they relieve me of a great deal of care and responsibility. My two boys, there," with an affectionate glance toward two sturdy, manly-looking youngsters, "shall become miners, too, if they show any bent that way. While I am here I expect to effect a consolidation of our different companies under one head and management. That is all I want to accomplish before returning."

"Are you satisfied with your treatment in Mexico?" asked The Star man.

"Perfectly," was the reply, "I only wish our "Perfectly," was the reply, "I only wish our people understood better the friendly attitude of Mexico toward America and American citizens, and could appreciate the excellence of the present administration in a country that had fifty Presidents in sixty years. DUBLIN, July 18. - Mr. Redmond, nationalist member of parliament, speaking at Coolgraney, said he deeply respected Mr. Davitt's services, but regretted his latest speech, which amounted to a charge that was little short of folly against the advice given by the Irish leaders, and a charge of cowardice against the people. The tenants, Mr. Redmond said, ought not to engage in an unequal struggle against the bayonets of their enemies. Mr. Davitt, replying to Mr. Redmond, said he would act in accordance with Mr. Parnell's advice, but would not be dictated to by any subleader of the Irish people.

The action was begun last October. It is based on the allegations contained in a pamphlet issued and circulated by Ridgway in the interest of the and circulated by Ridgway in the interest of the conservatives in the political campaign of 1886. The pamphlet was entitled, "The Repeal of the Union Conspiracy;" alleged that the Irish National League and the Fenian Brotherhood were identical, and accused Mr. Brenon of being a gobetween London and Paris and of thwarting police searches for dynamite conspirators. The liberal-unionists are appealed to to subscribe to the fund.

SAD STORY TOLD BY A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD INMATE-THE REVEREND SUPERINTENDENT ARRESTED.
CHICAGO, July 18.—A local paper says: Robert G. Ferguson, aged twelve years, of La Grange Ill., who has been confined in a "Christian hon reached Utica from Forestport in General Priest's at Humboldt Park for some time, was found in the street yesterday with iron shackles on his feet. He tells the following story: There were at the "home" five other boys besides himself. They were fed on potatoes and water, each boy receiving certain allowance three times a day, provided that he had not been unruly. Robert said he stood the treatment a few days, and then escaped and trudged home. His father at once sent him back. On his arrival the Rev. Arnold, who is in charge o the place, chained him in an up-stairs room and put him on half rations. He was kept there four days, and was then released on promising good behavior. That night he once more started for La Grange, but was caught and again chained in the room. This time he was kept in the shackles ten days. Yesterday, while Arnold was at church Robert, with the assistance of the other boys, escaped to the street, where he was found. Just a the boy finished telling his story Arnold walked into the station to claim the boy. He admitted
